The national comparators shown are based on a breakdown of state-funded primary, state-funded secondary and special schools, in line with statistical releases on absence.

This data includes all absences reported during the autumn term 2018 and spring term 2019. For schools which opened or closed part way through this period, their absence information will be based on a shorter period.

This is final data for 2018/2019 (January 2019 census data).

For a small number of schools there may be slight discrepancies between school characteristics data displayed in ASP and data in the IDSR. This is because the IDSR is based on the January school census but ASP data has incorporated some updates made after the January school census.

Key stage 2

Key stage 2 headline measures

Progress score

These scores show how much progress pupils at this school made in reading, writing and maths between the end of key stage 1 and the end of key stage 2, compared to pupils across England who got similar results at the end of key stage 1.

The scores are calculated by comparing the key stage 2 test and assessment results of pupils at this school with the results of pupils in schools across England who started with similar assessment results at the end of the previous key stage - key stage 1.

In a small number of cases, pupils can have extremely negative progress scores that disproportionately affect a school's progress score. To reduce the impact of these extreme scores, we set a limit on how negative a pupil's progress score can be when calculating the school average. This will normally apply to 1 or 2 pupils if any.

Where a pupil's score is more negative than this minimum value, an adjusted score will replace the pupil's original progress score for the purpose of calculating a school's overall progress average. For further information, see the technical guidance.

In 2018/19, the new pre-key stage standards were used for the first time to report teacher assessment in reading, writing and maths for pupils working below the standard of national curriculum assessments engaged in subject-specific study. The progress methodology reflects this in the nominal points allocated for these pupils, only for the purpose of creating school level progress scores.

<https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/primary-school-accountability>

Confidence interval

It is difficult to say with certainty how much of the progress scores are down to the school (which may have scored higher with a different group of pupils) and how much is down to the pupils (for example some may have performed well at any school). The confidence intervals reflect this uncertainty. If the confidence intervals for 2 schools overlap, then we can't say for certain that the 2 progress scores for these schools are significantly different.

Generally speaking, the greater the number of pupils, the smaller the range of the confidence interval. For smaller schools, the confidence interval tends to be larger, since fewer pupils are included, and therefore the score will be more greatly impacted by performance of individual pupils.

A school is above average if their progress score is above 0 and the whole confidence interval is above 0. Similarly, a school is below average if their progress score is below 0 and the whole confidence interval is below 0.

For more information on statistical confidence, and more detailed technical guidance in general, see:

<https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/primary-school-accountability>

Change in methodology

Attainment in reading, writing and maths (combined) is not directly comparable to earlier years (2016 and 2017) because of changes to the writing teacher assessment frameworks in 2017.

Achieving the expected standard or higher

Pupils are 'meeting the expected standard' if they achieve a 'scaled score' of 100 or more in their reading and maths tests, and their teacher assesses them as 'working at the expected standard' or better in writing. For a more detailed explanation, see Scaled scores at key stage 2, Key stage 2 teacher assessment and Primary school accountability.

Percentage of pupils achieving the higher standard

Pupils are 'achieving at a higher standard' if they achieve a 'scaled score' of 110 or more in their reading and maths tests, and their teacher assesses them as 'working at a greater depth within the expected standard' in writing. We set this standard for the first time in 2016 to provide information about pupils across England achieving in the top 5%. For a more detailed explanation, see Scaled scores at key stage 2, Key stage 2 teacher assessment and Primary school accountability.

Average score in reading

The average scaled score for each pupil group. The expected standard is a score of 100 or more. The higher standard is 110 or more. Scaled scores allow us to compare pupil group performance year on year. Read more about scaled scores.

Average score in maths

The average scaled score for each pupil group. The expected standard is a score of 100 or more. The higher standard is 110 or more. Scaled scores allow us to compare pupil group performance year on year. Read more about scaled scores.

National average

The data used for the national comparator is all state-funded schools in England. These include academies, free schools, local authority maintained schools and special schools.

Local authority average

The data used for this comparator is all state-funded schools in this school's local authority.

Progress score

These scores show how much progress pupils at this school made in reading, writing and maths between the end of key stage 1 and the end of key stage 2, compared to pupils across England who got similar results at the end of key stage 1.

The scores are calculated by comparing the key stage 2 test and assessment results of pupils at this school with the results of pupils in schools across England who started with similar assessment results at the end of the previous key stage - key stage 1.

In a small number of cases, pupils can have extremely negative progress scores that disproportionately affect a school's progress score. To reduce the impact of these extreme scores, we set a limit on how negative a pupil's progress score can be when calculating the school average. This will normally apply to 1 or 2 pupils if any.

Where a pupil's score is more negative than this minimum value, an adjusted score will replace the pupil's original progress score for the purpose of calculating a school's overall progress average. For further information, see the technical guidance.

Confidence interval

It is difficult to say with certainty how much of the progress scores are down to the school (which may have scored higher with a different group of pupils) and how much is down to the pupils (for example some may have performed well at any school). The confidence intervals reflect this uncertainty. If the confidence intervals for 2 schools overlap, then we can't say for certain that the 2 progress scores for these schools are significantly different.

Generally speaking, the greater the number of pupils, the smaller the range of the confidence interval. For smaller schools, the confidence interval tends to be larger, since fewer pupils are included, and therefore the score will be more greatly impacted by performance of individual pupils.

Prior attainment of disadvantaged pupils - 3 year trends

Changes to eligibility criteria for Free School Meals (FSM) under Universal Credit has implications for schools' disadvantaged pupil data (for further information see the government response to eligibility for free school meals and the early years pupil premium under Universal Credit consultation). Schools' disadvantaged cohorts vary year on year and it is important to consider prior attainment when comparing performance. Where a school's disadvantaged cohort's attainment has increased or decreased significantly between years, this may partly be explained by changes in the size and make-up of the cohort. Furthermore, please treat disadvantaged pupil data with caution when comparing school performance nationally, until Universal Credit roll-out is completed.

Key stage 2 three year average

If a school has converted from one school type to another in the last three years, three year averages on ASP will include results from the predecessor school.

Percentage of pupils achieving the expected standard for reading, writing and maths, 2017-2019

Three year averages are an important way to show how schools are performing across time, smoothing out small variations in a single year, for example, due to a small cohort size. To take into account varying pupil numbers each year, the three-year average is weighted by the size of the school's cohort in each year.

Key stage 2 results over 3 years

Progress score

These scores show how much progress pupils at this school made in reading, writing and maths between the end of key stage 1 and the end of key stage 2, compared to pupils across England who got similar results at the end of key stage 1.

The scores are calculated by comparing the key stage 2 test and assessment results of pupils at this school with the results of pupils in schools across England who started with similar assessment results at the end of the previous key stage - key stage 1.

In a small number of cases, pupils can have extremely negative progress scores that disproportionately affect a school's progress score. To reduce the impact of these extreme scores, we set a limit on how negative a pupil's progress score can be when calculating the school average. This will normally apply to 1 or 2 pupils if any.

Where a pupil's score is more negative than this minimum value, an adjusted score will replace the pupil's original progress score for the purpose of calculating a school's overall progress average. For further information, see the technical guidance.
