We used books and ipads to help us find out what it was like for children in Victorian schools.

We then wrote our facts into full sentences.

The Dunses hat is what you wear if you're naughty. You don't wear it if your not naughty though. The dunses hat was kept in the head masters office. We dont really have dunsers hats any more because it's not nice.

Victorian Classrooms

This is a cane from the Victorian school. It's hard and wooden. The victorian teachers would smack you with it. Teachers are not able to use them any more but they can to help them walk.

Victorian Classrooms

The desks are combined to the chairs. The chairs were uncomftabole. The classroom had to be quiet not like today. The teachers always said SIT DOWN if you stood up. In the victorian times the teacher might give you the cane or bring you to the headmister. In the victorian times, the classrooms were apart. The boys wasn't with the girls. The girls weren't with boys because teachers didn't like that because they thought it was disgusting to boys and girls be together. It's not like that now though.

Victorian Teachers

The teachers were mean. The teachers didn't let the boys and girls together. The teachers were mean to children. The teachers said 'you stay here for the whole day'. The teachers were really, really mean because in the past teachers always hated children. It's because they thought that children were brats. In the Victorian times when you were bad you might have got the cane dunce hat and the belt in scotswood. The teachers loved doing them things but if you were good you got a big gold medal.
