"Who are the people who help us?" Squirrels Class Enquiry Based Learning

We began our enquiry based learning by introducing the term 'people who help us'. We asked the children what this term meant to them and if they understood the concept. It was important that the children had a solid understanding of what 'help' meant before starting our enquiry.

We asked the children 'who can help us?' and they came up with a variety of ideas to begin our Enquiry Based Learning topic.

We began by reading a range of fiction and nonfiction books and watched videos about people who can help us during group time and also as part of our class story time so the children could choose using our voting station.

I fix the cars.

I help the people who are sick.

-10510510510510510510510510510510510510

The children explored different jobs using our role play corner where they could try on different outfits. The children were very good at using their phone. I help at the hospital.

I'm on the

I put the bandages on. Her arm is hurt.

We played with the puppets and pretended to take on the different roles.

The children enjoyed playing matching games, learning about the people and talking about what the people would wear for their different jobs.
We talked about why people had to wear certain clothes.

We looked at roles in the community and the children were able to match and talk about what each person may need to do their job.

We have been practising our cutting skills too whilst talking about the people who help us.

We also explored transport and the types of transport the emergency services would use. We also looked at which types of transport would go on land, sea or air.

The children also got creative and made their own emergency vehicles using different materials.

This is my police car, it goes really fast!

These are the police!

Archie

This is a fire engine, its loud!

Here are the firefighters!

Yukthikasri

This is my ambulance, it gets the people and takes them to hospital.

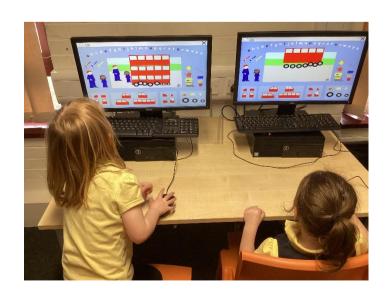

Grayson

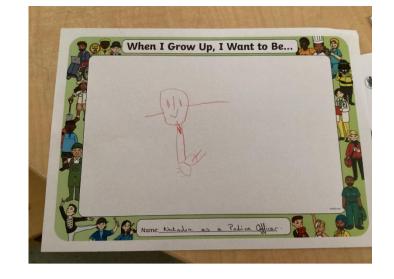

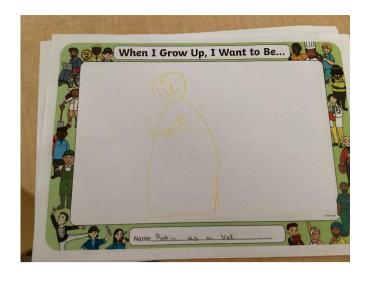

We also made or own vehicles in ICT using the 2Simple programme. We have been practising using the mouse and using it to click and drag.

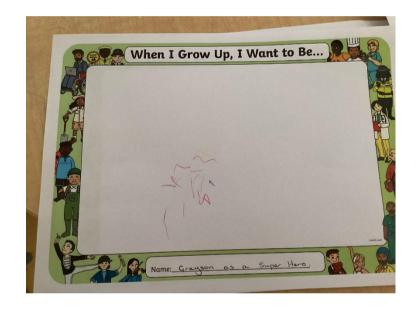

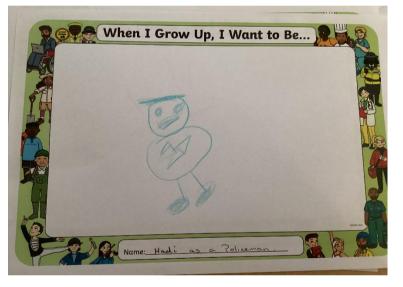

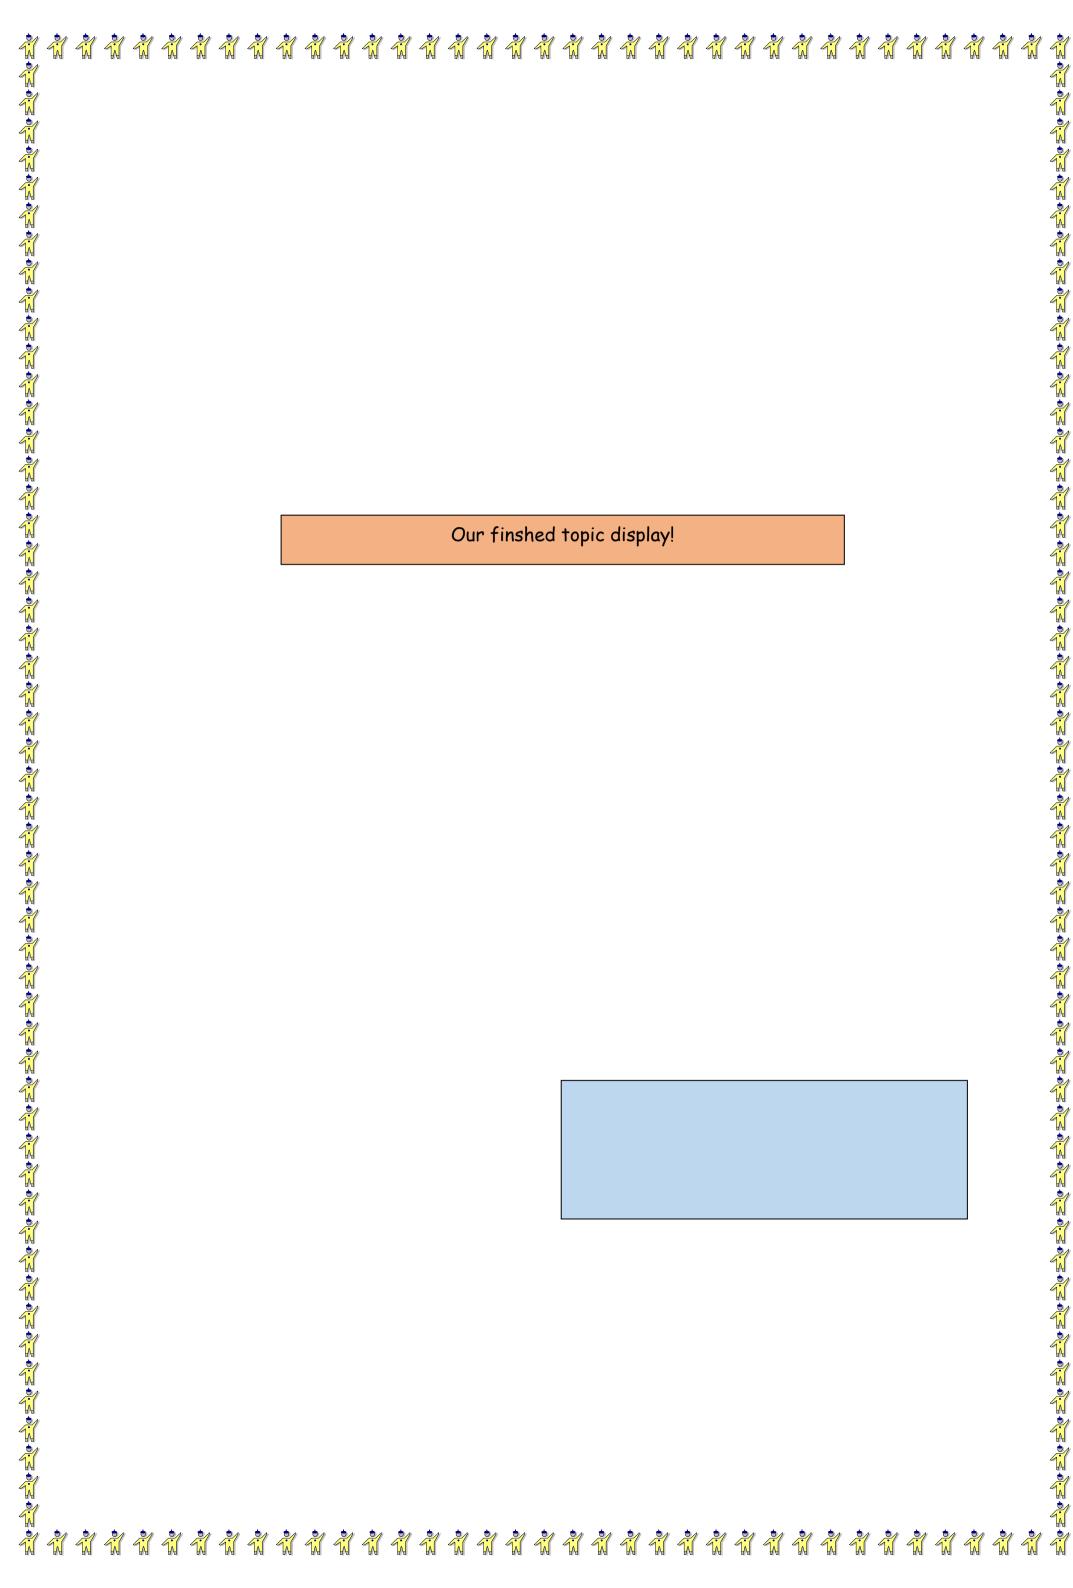

We finished off our topic with the children talking about and drawing what they would like to be when they grow up and asking the question 'why?'. They were mostly able to tell us what those people did in their jobs that made them want to do it aswell.

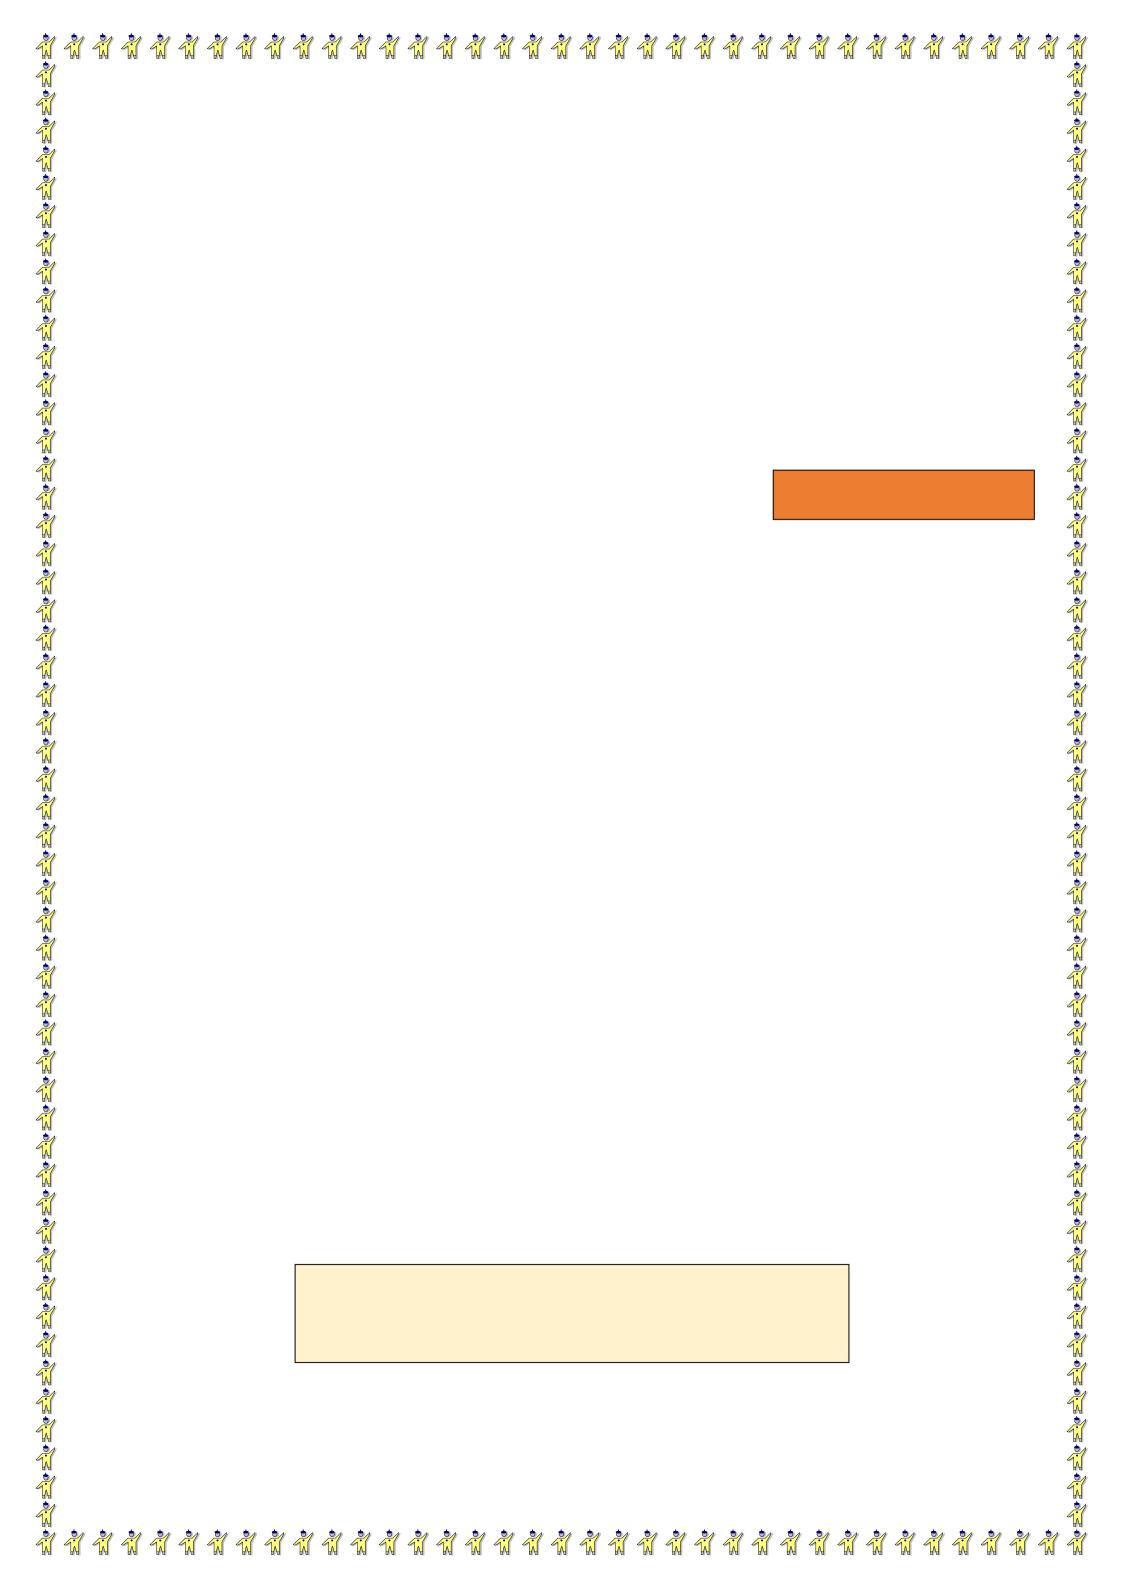

Our finished topic display!

Our final display

i i i i

N N N N